Are your identification requirements enforced? Are all entry points secured? Are aesthetics not prioritized over security? Are existent security systems utilized properly?

In a commercial or governmental environment, building security is critical for protecting the occupants of the building and their property. In case of insufficient security, incidents of illegal intrusion and access can lead to severe disruption of your business processes and damage to the organisation, its staff, assets, environment and reputation. To safeguard undisrupted continuation of your operations it is important to detect and deter intrusion, whether this is physical intrusion by persons or intrusion through networks or other entry, like mail and delivery. The access control should be on a level that management is alarmed by any attempt to illegally access the building.

Process

We will survey your building and its vulnerabilities. Given current threats we will prioritize the various risks that you are facing. We classify the likelihood and consequences of various illegal access scenarios. We will prioritize those scenarios and suggest counter measures. The result will be a management summary with recommendations for a conceptual security design. After the conceptual design, we can further assist with technical designs, financial proposals and project management.

Result

Making use of our consultancy helps you to not only bolster the security posture of your building but also to prevent common mistakes from happening.

Tailored to requirement and budget

Depending on the exact customers' requirement and budget we design a consultancy package with focus on a selection of the following components and subjects:

- Infrastructure security design and architecture
- Access control
- Screening of persons and luggage
- Screening of vehicles
- Surveillance, patrols and other physical controls
- Potentially disruptive staff and visitors
- Security controls for supplies and mail
- Staff recruitment and training
